THE STORM IN WEST VIRGINIA-DAMAGE TO RAILROAD TRAINS.

[Special telegram to the Dispatch.] CANNELTON, W. Va., September 13 .- During the day and night just passed there were heavy rains in the country, supplying the Gauley, Greenbrier, New and Kanawba rivers. Those streams have risen to great heights and are bursting their banks with much violence. As soon as the railroad authorities were apprised of the condition of affairs they ordered all trains that could be communicated with to stop. There were, however, two accidents these precautions could not prevent. Last night a locomotive drawing a freight train was disabled ten miles east of this point. A material train was sent to its assistance. A culvert had washed out and left the track standing, but unsupported. Down the locomotive and tender plunged, and the engineer, Mul- Higginbotham's place were carried more caby, of Huntington, was killed. Others escaped as fly a miracle.

In the Vicinity of Richmond. Very few of our readers had any idea that the storm of Thursday night would prove to be one of such a serious nature. Indeed, it was not until yesterday, when the details began to come in, that its magnitude was fully appreciated, and even at this writing it is hardly probable that we have had full information of its destruction except in our immediate vicinity. Here in Richmond, from 9 o'clock at night until long after midnight, the wind blew at times almost a gale, and about midnight the rain fell in torrents. In some portions of the city a few trees were blown down or limbs THE WEATHER YESTERDAY was clear and twisted off, and in one instance a chimneytop was carried away; but the storm here, it now appears, was nothing like as severe as it was in the upper end of Henrico county, or in some portions of Chesterfield county. The special telegrams which we published yesterday from Goldsboro' and Burkeville, giving graphic accounts of the doings of the tornado in those localities, no doubt warned many persons of the coming of the storm; but it was before it reached these parts. EFFECT OF THE TORNADO IN HENRICO. Early yesterday morning information was received here to the effect that the storm had played havoc in the upper end of the county. It appeared to come from the southeast, and passed off northwestwardly towards Short Pump, and across the country to the Broad-Street road. Its track was not wider than one hundred and fifty vards, but the damage done within that space was unusual. WHERE THE STORM CROSSED THE JAMES. The storm crossed James river on Thursday evening about 5 o'clock from the direction of Cresterfield county, and en-tered Henrico county a short distance below Bosher's dam. Its track there was about 125 yards in width, and in it trees of the largest size were prostrated, both oak and twisted off like twigs. Nothing seemed to withstand its fury.

NARROW ESCAPES. Mrs. Carter, who was in the house at the time, narrowly escaped with her youngest child in her arms, the other children following. Almost as soon as she got out of the house, Mrs. Carter was blown prostrate, and in falling injured her child, and it is feared fatally. Mr. Hughes, a Welshman, had his new house completely demolished, and he was struck on the back by flying timbers and painfully injured. He was approaching the house at the time.

Mr. John T. Duval resides near Mr. Higginbotham's residence, on the west. The storm struck this gentleman's tobacco barn and stable, completely wrecking them and scattering their contents.

NEAR SHORT-PUMP. A negro woman named Dauphane, who lives in the neighborhood of Short-Pump, in a substantial log structure, had her house entirely demolished.

Abraham Harris and William Cary, both colored, also had their houses destroyed. Our informant states that persons in the country, and very naturally so, were greatly alarmed, many of them believing that the world was about to come to an end. The storm we have described above passed through the district between the river and the Broad-Street road, a distance of about six miles, in a northwest direction. Later information of the high water and its damage will be found in our telegraph column. It will doubtless be borne in mind that when the river is six feet above ordinary level at Lynchburg the tow-path is covered, and the packets cannot arrive or depart. This being the case yesterday, the mails were sent out on borseback. The packet Madison left here yesterday afternoon shortly after 5, having been detained by the company here, hoping to receive later information concerning the rise at Lynchburg. The boat will go as far as Scottsville and return in time to depart on Monday at 5 P. M. The company has been enabled to make but one trip through to Lexington since the November flood, and that trip was made this week. It is to be hoped that the new earth on the banks will be able to withstand the present high water and the canal sustain no damage. The windstorm of Thursday evening appears to have done very little damage at the point where it crossed from Chesterfield to Henrico.

ON THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILWAY. The freighting business of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company has prohoped that its fury would have been spent bably been heavier during the past ten days than at any time since the opening of this great line to Huntington and the West, and it is greatly to be regretted that Monument fund, $38.25, sent by Manager the recent beavy rain-storm should have Haldeman, of the Louisville Courier-Jourcaused even a temporary delay in the run- nal, and contributed by children readers of their stock. ning of the freight trains on the western the children's department of the Courierdivision of the road, but with the usual enterprise and energy of the officers and men the line will probably be cleared in the course of a few hours.

FREIGHT TRAIN OFF THE TRACK. Yesterday morning an eastward-bound extra freight train, while near Barboursville, four hundred and ten miles west from Richmond, ran into a rock slide caused by the heavy rains, and seriously injured a splendid locomotive which had just been thoroughly overhauled at a considerable cost, and which came out of the locomotiveshops on Tuesday morning last. FROM THE SOUTHSIDE. Our Petersburg correspondent, in his letter last night, thus describes the storm in that section: A very severe storm occurred throughout this section yesterday afternoon, accompanied by a great fall of rain. In Dinwiddie the storm assumed the character of a hurricane, and swept across the county with destructive force. In its pathway, which was about fifty to one hundred feet wide, everything was blown down. The hurricane crossed the Boydton road between this city and Dinwiddie Courthouse at Mr. Young's farm. A house occupied by a large family of colored people was blown to pieces-In the yard there was a large number of only one of the children being in-Trees were twisted off, crops elled to the ground. About one mile path was complete, but as far as known

At this hour (midnight) the river here has commenced rising very slowly, and is no doubt the water from the Rivanua. At 11 o'clock the alarm bell was sounded in Manchester, and all the hands of the Manchester cotton factories were called out to remove the cotton goods from the lower order to escape the expected high water. A large force of hands was engaged in Danville bridge, at this city, which has recently been undergoing repairs. The river at Lynchburg was twenty-three feet six inches above its ordinary level in November, 1877-the great flood. At midnight last night it was only fifteen feet above ordinary level. Teamsters were all busy late last night,
